São Paulo, April 11, 2025 – US immigration specialist Wagner Pontes will present an exclusive masterclass on the American technology market and immigration opportunities for Brazilian professionals during Web Summit 2025. The event, which brings together global leaders in the technology sector, be the stage for Pontes to share valuable insights on how Brazilian professionals can access the promising US big tech market.

The masterclass titled “Tech market in the USA: Salaries, opportunities and immigration” will provide essential information for developers, data scientists, security analysts, and other technology professionals looking to expand their careers internationally.

“The North American market remains extremely receptive to Brazilian talent, especially in STEM fields (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics). Despite the tightening of immigration policies, the immigration of qualified professionals has been widely encouraged by President Donald Trump. Today, the US faces a shortage of these professionals, creating exceptional opportunities for Brazilians willing to take this step,” explains Wagner Pontes, founder and CEO of D4U Immigration, an immigration consultancy specialized in helping people visit, work, live, and invest in the US, Europe, and Dubai.

Pontes will also explain the paths to obtaining a Green Card, focusing on EB visas, based on work opportunities. He will specifically address the EB-2 NIW, EB-1, and EB-5 categories, sharing success stories of Brazilians who quickly secured their permanent residence in the USA.
